THANKSGIVING PROCLAMATION.
The President Appoints Thursday, November 28th.

By the President of the United States—A Proclamation:
The recurrence of that season at which it is the habit of our people to make devout and public confession of their constant dependence on Divine favor for all good gifts of life and happiness, and of public peace and prosperity, as exhibited in the record of the year, the abundant harvests of our grain, the rich and varied exuberance of our fruit, the productive mines, ample crops of the staples of trade and manufactures which have enriched the country; the resources thus furnished to our reviving industry and expanding commerce, and hastening the day of peace and unity, and the health and strength and breadth of the land, will, under the continued favor of Providence, have given way to confidence and energy and a new era of health and wealth and prosperity, and the institutions of liberty and justice which the wisdom and virtue of our fathers established, remain the glory and the defense of their children. The general presence of the blessings of heaven upon our wide land has made more conspicuous the sufferings and sorrows which the dark shadow of pestilence has cast upon the earth of our people. This heavy affliction even the Divine Ruler has tempered to the suffering community by the universal sympathy and success which have flowed to their relief, and the whole nation may rejoice in the unity of spirit in our people which they cheerfully share with other's burdens.

Now, therefore, I, Rutherford B. Hayes, President of the United States, do hereby set apart the 28th day of November next, as a day of National Thanksgiving and prayer, and I earnestly recommend that, with grateful hearts, the people of this country, and the people of the United States do meet together on that day in their respective places of worship to adore the Lord their God, to adore to Almighty God for His mercies, and to devoutly beseech His continuance.

In witness whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the United States to be affixed. Done at the City of Washington, this 28th day of October, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and seventy-eight, and of the Independence of the United States one hundred and third.

(SEAL.) R. B. HAYES.
By the President,
WM. M. EVANS, Secretary of State.

THE BANKS AND RESUMPTION.
The banks of the United States can do much to assist the Secretary of the Treasury in carrying out the resumption law on the first of next January. Their good will and generous aid would make specie resumption an easy and a pleasant thing; their ill-will and combined opposition, would trouble Secretary Sherman very considerably in his attempts to comply with the law which authorizes him to pay out coin for the redemption of legal tenders of the United States, on the first of January.
That important event is rapidly approaching—an event more important and significant than any which has taken place in this country since the surrender at Appomattox. It will settle a question which has been hotly agitated for several years, and it will virtually settle the financial policy of the United States. The banks, appreciating the greatness of the question, and the importance of their influence relative to resumption, held a conference with Secretary Sherman regarding preparation to resume.
The conference was a harmonious one, and it is said the gathering of bankers to talk with the Secretary about resumption, actually reduced the premium on gold from 1/2 to 1/4 of one per cent. The question which was discussed at considerable length in the conference, was that pertaining to the silver dollar and its coinage. While the banks are ready, and even anxious, to assist the Secretary in resuming, they are opposed to receiving silver dollars on deposit, and are likewise in favor of limiting the amount of the coinage of silver dollars, and are also unanimous for a gold standard alone. In short, the policy the banks of New York city propose to adopt on and after the first of January, 1879, is this:
To decline gold coins as special deposits, but accept and treat them as lawful money.
To decline silver dollars upon deposit, as money, but only receive them under special contract to withdraw the same in kind.
To hold the same attitude in respect to silver dollars that California banks have done respecting legal-tender notes, i. e., accept them only when legally compelled, and decline all further commercial relations with the compelling party.
To discount gold special accounts by the note to dealers to terminate them on the first of January.
This determined policy on the part of the New York bankers, will doubtless bring the silver question before Congress at the coming session. The Eastern bankers, and we may say the bankers generally throughout the country, are strongly in favor of the gold standard only. They believe in the California policy, and propose to insist upon its being carried out. This position is taken on the ground that the present silver policy will have the effect to demoralize gold; that the constant fluctuation in the price of silver prevents it from becoming a measure of value; and that the silver dollar of 42 1/2 is worth less than ninety cents. On that subject the delegation of bankers addressed Secretary Sherman in substance as follows: It is confidently hoped that Congress, in view of the unexpected fluctuations of silver, will repeal the law as passed, will reconsider and repeal it at an early day. In the meantime, however, it is in the power of the Secretary to bring the coinage to the minimum sum allowed by law, and to make for it a place in the circulating medium by withdrawing an adequate amount of small denominations, for which the silver dollars may be substituted, and to that extent make a subsidiary coin without serious injury.
There could be no harm in issuing a year's amount of required coins, which means the amount required to be issued within a year, and be healthfully absorbed within that time. It is believed that the permanent restoration of the gold standard, with the commercial property of the country naturally attending it, will have made the duty of Congress respecting it clear and unquestionable. With this assurance from the Government, the banks may confidently and zealously combine their energies to bring the country into the movement toward resumption upon a gold standard, with the conviction that at the same time, fulfilling their highest duty to the nation and to their constituents, and promoting the best interests of commerce and trade.
It will be seen from this summary of the address that an effort will be made to change the policy of the Government in regard to silver. The whole question will likely be fought over again in Congress. Congress made three errors respecting silver which have created the present opposition to the silver dollar: (1) It should not have demonetized the trade dollar, but allowed it to remain a legal to the amount of $5.00 as previous to

THE JAMESVILLE GAZETTE.

VOLUME 22 JAMESVILLE, WISCONSIN, WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 13, 1878. NUMBER 213

July 22, 1876; (2) it should have put sufficient silver in the new dollar to make it worth 100 cents in gold; and (3) it should have limited its legal tender quality. In connection with the subject of resumption, it may be well to quote the substance of a dispatch sent from New York, which says that "a meeting of the Clearing House Directors is to be in a few days, and a member of the board said to-night that action would be taken at that time which would undoubtedly reduce gold to par in twenty-four hours. This is in accordance with the wishes of Secretary Sherman, who greatly desires that resumption be brought about at once by the obliteration of the premium on gold."

But the New York Bankers and all others, who seek to enforce the California policy, and to make war against the silver dollar, should consider well its consequences. It is a rash step, and will be condemned by the intelligence of the American people. What the bankers should do is to aid not only resumption, but to work for results which make gold, silver, and greenbacks of one value and interchangeable. Any other policy will be disastrous to the banks and a wrong to the people.

The returns from Massachusetts show that Walbridge A. Field has been re-elected in the Third District of that State, an event which will deeply gratify the Republicans in other States. Two years ago Field was elected to Congress over one Dean by a clear majority of five. There was no charge of fraud or irregularity, but when the Confederates in the House last winter began the infamous and unblushingly outrageous practice of unseating Republicans for the purpose of increasing the Democratic majority, they selected Field as one of their victims, and with the aid of that piece of human monstrosity—Benj. F. Butler—Field was kicked out to the disgrace of the American Congress. The people of the Boston district did not forget the insult, and he was renominated during the campaign, and has been re-elected by a majority so decided that the rebels in Congress dare not attempt to unseat him again.

Henry Watterson, the young and brilliant editor of the Louisville Courier Journal, made a speech in Chicago at the Commercial Convention in which he depreciated the disposition of politicians to keep alive the sectional unpleasantness between the North and the South. The gallant Henry is one thing as an editor, but entirely another thing as a speaker in a Northern city. It was he who fairly ached to raise 100,000 men to insure the inauguration of the greatest fraud of the nineteenth century—Tilden. It was he who urged a revolution in order to make sure the triumph of the great Cipher. Before and since the election of 1876, Henry Watterson has been courting a solid South, and for him to fall so much conservatism regarding politics, to talk so sweetly about brotherly love, and to manifest so much a desire to see sectional prejudices banished, is rather too late an exhibition of hypocrisy.

A singular case of a voluntary surrender of one's own person has just taken place at Freeport. George C. Thompson, ex-clerk of Stephenson county, absconded in 1875 with some of the county funds. He went with his family to California and remained there until the 5th of the present month. A reward of $1,000 was offered for his arrest and conviction by the county supervisors. He became conscience stricken, could endure the pain of guilt no longer, and finally determined to return to Freeport, surrender himself to the authorities, stand a trial, and begin life anew. To the surprise of everybody he appeared on the streets of Freeport on Monday, having left San Francisco on the 5th. His bail was fixed at $4,000, and next spring he will have his trial. The case is a novel one, and as a matter of course, creates a marked sensation in Freeport.

Dr. Linderman, Director of the United States mints, is preparing his annual report, and from advance sheets we obtain the following valuable information regarding the production of gold and silver for the year. There has been a light increase over the year previous:

E. D. Coe, of the Whitewater Register, a gentleman and a man of sense and ability, was re-elected to the Assembly by an increased majority. Quite evidently the people of Walworth county know what is for their interests.—Pond du Lac Commonwealth.

Coe is a gentleman of ability and excellent common sense, and knows how to represent his district in the Assembly, and we are sorry he was not re-elected by "an increased majority." One year ago his majority was 415, but this year he receives his certificate on 6 majority. The treachery of friends, the hatred of soreheads, and the whisky influence, came near defeating him. Ed is too much of a man to be sacrificed by such a disreputable combination as that, and while his majority is cut down, his friends heartily congratulate him that he is returned to the Assembly.

It is a remark fit to be made, when the Chicago Tribune says that not since 1840 has there been so many Democratic strongholds carried by Republicans as in the late election. The number is surprisingly large. The counties of Dane, Jefferson and Milwaukee, in this State, are instances which may serve as an illustration how successful was the assault of the Republicans; while many strong Democratic counties and districts in New York, Pennsylvania, and Connecticut have gone very largely Republican. The Republicans have not only won significant victories in this direction, but they have buried a large number of Democratic politicians, and among the number is Judge Doolittle, of this State.

After twenty months of a conciliatory policy by the Administration—a policy so mild as even to make some Democrats blush—the President becomes convinced that it is a failure and a wrong, and shall be no longer entertained. The condition of things in the South is a disgrace, and the President begins to feel it, and at last will abandon the wretches who run the elections in the Southern States. Had Mr. Hayes some of the Jackson nerve and will there would have been no outrages in South Carolina, and no murders and frauds Louisiana.

It will very likely happen that the premium of gold will be entirely obliterated before the first of December, so that we shall have practical resumption a month before the time specified by law.

GRANT'S ESCAPE.
How a Band of Guerrillas Tried to Kidnap the General While Besieging Vicksburg.

Every one knows more or less of the famous western highwaymen, the Jameses and Youngers. Before the war they were conspicuously engaged in the Kansas border difficulties, and were members of the notorious Quantrell troop of guerrillas. At the breaking out of the war "Quantrell's command" were not recognized as belonging to either army, but looked upon as free lances of the worst sort, for they fought for plunder alone. The St. Louis Evening Post is responsible for the story that Governor Allen, of Louisiana, employed for scouting purposes several of the Quantrell men under the command of Joe Lee, and among these were the Jameses and Youngers. That journal, in what it calls "An Unwritten Lesson," gives the following story of one of the adventures of that famous band:

There could be much said of the daring exploits of Joe Lee and his band of freebooters, but one adventure deserves especial mention, since it is known how near it came to affecting the siege of Vicksburg. It appears that after Vicksburg had been invested and the south threatened at other points, Governor Allen, of Louisiana, conceived the desperate idea of capturing the person of General Grant. He believed that Grant was the evil genius of the Confederacy, and that if he could be killed or taken prisoner the siege of Vicksburg could be raised and the Federal army driven back. He sent for Joe Lee and imparted to him his thoughts, and asked him if he could devise a plan. It was readily taken to by Lee, who immediately proposed to execute the daring enterprise. At that time—that is in the spring of 1864—Grant and his army were encamped at Milliken's Bend, near Young's Point, on the Mississippi, some eighteen miles above Vicksburg. General Grant's headquarters were in the dwelling house that belonged to a magnificent plantation, much of which can be seen from the deck of a passing steamer. Joe Lee proposed to go to that house and bring away the body of General Grant, dead or alive.

Those five of his most trusted men. They were the James brothers, two of the Younger brothers and John Jarrett. These, with himself, made six. There never were six better men for such an expedition. They were young, strong, and as brave as the bravest. They had already seen all there is in war. They had been tried in the most trying places; had suffered all manner of hardships; did not care much whether they lived or died; were the quickest and best shots in the world, and rode the fleetest horses in the land. It was just before the Federal army set out on that surprising march down the west side of the river. The country was all full of marshes, bayous and morasses, so that the natural advantages for the execution of the plot were good. The plan was for Joe Lee and his five trusted followers to dress up in full Federal uniform, ride on horseback to Milliken's Bend, go direct to the house where Grant was stopping, rush in and secure his person, put him on a spare horse, and then escape to the swamps which were near by. On one Saturday evening late the party set out from Dickson's house, near Delhi, and rode towards the Mississippi. There was not a soul on earth besides themselves and Governor Allen that knew of their desperate mission. It was something over twenty miles they had to go and the night was a dark one, but long before day they were at the edge of the wood that bordered the plantation on which Grant was quartered. There was no enemy to attack from the west side, and there was no particular precaution about Guards. The pickets were passed before sun-up, and while the general was yet asleep the guerrillas rode boldly up through the open field towards the house. There they were—six men and seven horses—the empty saddle for the commander of the hundred thousand men who were camped out in every direction. They approached within almost a stone's throw of the house, when they met a negro. They were discovered. It was an old man whom they very much had run away from Delhi ten days before. He knew them all, and immediately gave the alarm. In a moment there was a tumult, and the six guerrillas had nothing to do but save their lives. They broke through the field, and in the twinkling of an eye were back in the woods, but not until a hundred shots had been fired after them. Before the sun went down they were safe at the favorite rendezvous. Thus was frustrated one of the most daring plots of the war. It is not probable that General Grant took any particular notice of the affair, and it is not at all probable that he has ever realized the valuable services of the old colored man. What interpretation the officers of the army put upon the presence of the strange and hostile men at such a time and place is not known, but if there were any doubts as to their mission, this bit of history may serve to remove them.

Economy in Fuel.
Some of us Americans think we know what economy means, but it is a mistake. We don't know the first principle of the art. In the matter of food, for instance, Americans and English are both inordinately wasteful, even when they are very careful. In one day an ordinary cook will consume more fuel and produce less good dinners than a French cook will in a month of superb cooking. A Paris correspondent writes: Count Rumford laid down practical rules by which a dinner for 1,000 persons could be excellently well cooked and served at a cost of only ten cents! Now this process is improved upon, and a dinner for 1,000 persons can be well cooked at a fuel expense of five cents. Not by gas, that is a wasteful expense, but by the carbonated refuse of the gas house, known as coke. This coke is placed in a peculiarly constructed stove, which permits none of the fumes to pass into any other place than the closed chimney. The coke is generated into a brilliant fire at first by a powerful draft, then toned down as per the wants of the cook by mechanical damper. At this point all the odor of the gas is gone, and nothing but a clear fire, minus smell or dust, is ready. The fire in the broad top stove does duty for several dishes at the same time. You get your dinner hot and well cooked at a cost of less fuel than ever before known. This owner of the patent is about to proceed to America to protect his invention, or I might explain it.

BROODHEAD.
—The farmers in this section are being blessed with fine weather in which to harvest their corn, and they are improving the time. There is a good demand for hucksters at fair wages in this vicinity. —The last part of the past week was unusually active in the pork market. On last Saturday the stock yards of this place were crowded full of hogs waiting to be shipped. Prices of the same ranged from $2.30 to $2.55 per hundred pounds. —Rev. Mr. Murphy, of Tennessee, addressed the citizens of Ayon and vicinity at the Baptist church on last Sunday. The discourse was a very fine one, and will be long remembered by the people. —Her many friends will be glad to learn that Mrs. Lincoln, wife of our esteemed pastor, after a long illness, is now getting better. —Mr. John Woolsey, of Ayon, is now rapidly repairing his mill, and will soon be ready again to supply the wants of his customers in that line. —The citizens of Brodhead were enraptured Sunday and Monday evenings last, by lectures on the "Antiquity of man" and "Darwinism" by the Rev. Mr. Nesbit. The lectures were listened to by large and appreciative audiences.

MISCELLANEOUS.

CATARH
THE EYE, EAR AND THROAT Successfully Treated with SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE.

SUCCESS is the test of merit, and success in the treatment of catarrh affections, after so many miserable failures, means undoubted curative properties in the remedy used. Does Sanford's Radical Cure for Catarrh possess such curative properties? The evidence, in the shape of uncounted testimonials from the most respectable people in all stations of life, must be conclusively in its favor. Never, we believe, in the history of popular medicine has such value been so conclusively offered, freely offered, in favor of any remedy than that in the preparation of Sanford's Radical Cure. And valuable as it is, it does not represent a thousandth part of the recommendation which is freely offered by friends to friends in its favor. People of wealth and refinement in all parts of the country daily and incessantly offer any method of cure known to the regular medical profession, but such public testimony is a published statement. Hence the testimonials in this possession represent but a small part of those withheld for the reason mentioned. The following unimpeachable testimonials from Henry Wells, Esq., of Wells, Fargo & Co. Express, is an outspoken endorsement of which we are justly proud.

INVALUABLE.
Messrs. WELLS & FARGO, Wholesale Druggists, Boston, Mass.: For some months past it has been my duty to offer suffering humanity to write you stating the benefit derived from the use of SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE FOR CATARRH. For more than 20 years I have been afflicted with this very troublesome complaint, and have tried all the remedies that I could find, but without material or permanent benefit. Last fall the disease had arrived at that state that I must have relief, or I should have become insane. The catarrhous inflammation had become so intense, and the stomach so disordered, that it was a doubtful matter whether I could go to the Pacific coast, or if I did go whether I should live to come back or not. I saw an advertisement of this medicine, and although being incredulous about specifics or nostrums of any kind, yet I tried this, and it was at once benefited by it. The changes of climate, a chronic disease of the liver, and my age—over 50—may prevent my entire restoration, but the benefit I derive from its daily use is to the measure, and I am hoping to be completely cured, and as last arrive at a respectable old age. It is a statement of my case can be of any service to those afflicted as I have been, and enable you to bring this remedy into more general use, especially on the Pacific coast, where it is much needed, my object in writing this note will be attained. Very truly yours, HENRY WELLS, Agent, Wells, Fargo & Co. Express, Astoria, N. Y., June 1878.

Each package contains Dr. Sanford's Improved Inhalant Tube, and full directions for use in all cases. Price $1.00. For sale by all Wholesale and Retail Druggists and by Wells, Fargo & Co. Express, Agents and Wholesale Druggists, Boston, Mass.
